'LET'S MAKE TOWN CENTRE GREAT AGAIN'

Tories call on council to join their regeneration campaign

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A CAMPAIGN calling for urgent action to revive Harlow town centre is launched today.

Save Harlow Town Centre hopes to breathe life back into the area by working with the council, residents and businesses.

Spearheaded by Harlow Conservatives, the campaign calls for regeneration of the town centre to be a priority which is supported by all political parties.

Speaking at a meeting of Harlow Council on Thursday, Conservative group leader Andrew Johnson said: "Tonight I call on the leader, the spokesman for regeneration, the cabinet and all of my side in the opposition too, to join a campaign to save our town centre."

Struggling

"Recent developments have undoubtedly increased trade and prosperity for Harlow, but there are too many businesses that have left our town or which are struggling."

"We can and we must do more to aid them in the building of a thriving town centre once more."

Suggestions for improvements could include rate relief for first time businesses and free periods of

IN CRISIS: Conservative councillors are calling for the regeneration of Harlow town centre rent for units that would otherwise be empty, say organisers.

The campaign has been welcomed by the members of the ruling Labour group, who earlier this year set aside a £1m fund to support the town centre. They also say a project manager will be appointed with a specific responsibility for the town centre.

Save Harlow Town Centre calls for an all-party group to be set up on the authority, which Harlow Council has yet to commit to.

Speaking on Thursday, the councillor responsible for regeneration, Labour's Tony Durcan, said: "Let's not talk this town down. We've achieved a lot collectively for the benefit of our whole community. The leader of the opposition is absolutely right – where we can we must work together for the mutual benefit of our town."

"I do think we need to have an open and frank discussion about

Man badly hurt after alley attack with plank

A MAN was taken to hospital with head and chest injuries after he was struck with a plank of wood in Harlow on Monday afternoon.

The victim, who has not been named, was walking in an alleyway in Little Grove Field at 2.30pm when he was assaulted.

The man suffered head, chest and arm injuries and was taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital, where he was treated and released.

The alleyway, which runs adjacent to Harer Street Primary School, was taped off by police while they carried out an investigation.

The victim described his attacker as white and about 5ft 7ins tall. He was wearing a black jumper, blue jeans and white trainers.

■ Anyone with any information about the incident is asked to contact police at Harlow on the non-emergency 101 number quoting incident 536 of August 3, or Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555111.

Masked men rob woman

AN 84-YEAR-OLD woman was left shaken after three youths forced their way into her home in Church Leys, Harlow.

Dog theft 'should be serious crime'

Campaign is launched for tougher sentences

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A PETITION calling for tougher sentences for people who steal dogs has been launched by a Harlow businessman.

Father-of-two Nick Brummitt, who lives in Gilston, launched the petition on the change.org website and has already gathered more than 7,000 signatures.

The entrepreneur, who launched Wowcher with daughters Nikki and Karis in 2009 before selling it to DMGT (The Daily Mail Group) two years later, said on the petition: "If the police bother to investigate a reported dog theft – and they don't – they simply give you a crime number and refer you to the dog wardens.

"Dog theft is classified as so unimportant, the police simply don't want to know. But the police just don't have the resources to investigate the five reported dogs stolen every day, do they?"

He added: "Because a dog is classified in law as no more than a possession, magistrates' sentencing guidelines treat stealing a dog the same as stealing an old bike or a lawnmower. Starting with a conditional discharge, a 'band B' fine (about £100), possibly 20 hours' community service or 18 weeks in prison for a repeat offender, it's a disgrace and must be changed."

CAMPAIGN: MP Robert Halfon with Nick Brummitt, who is calling for tougher sentences for dog thieves

The petition – should it receive 7,500 signatures – will be presented to the Prime Minister David Cameron.

Signing the petition, Simon Franklin, from Harlow said: "I'm signing because a dog or any animal theft should be classed as a serious crime."

Another Harlow resident said: "It's a disgrace that a loved family pet is considered worth so little and the scum, who steal them know the law is pathetic."

Nick added: "If your dog does a poo in a park and you don't pick it up – £1,000 fine. Take it on a beach in summer – £500 fine. If a dog is stolen it breaks the hearts of its family members forever. We have all had enough."

The petition calls for dog theft to carry a mandatory custodial sentence of at least one year and also calls for the police to "investigate every reported case properly".

Harlow MP Robert Halfon sympathises with issues but is prevented from publicly supporting the campaign because of his role as deputy chairman of the Conservative Party.

Campaign is launched to revive the town centre what the town centre is about. Is it about pure business? Is it about pure shopping? Is it about leisure? Is it about pleasure? If you look throughout the whole of the UK, town centres are shrinking and changing.

"The problem with regeneration is you have to be in front and guessing what you think the next generation will look like."

Earlier this year the town's longest serving businessman, florist Bernard Chapman, called for an urgent meeting to discuss the "crisis facing the town centre".

Cllr Johnson said this week: "This is too important to be a party political issue. It is very much my hope that Labour will work with us on this issue."

Decay

"Our town centre is decaying and falling into desolation and if Labour won't work with us I make this commitment – we will work with the public and do it ourselves.

"It is now down to them to bring forward proposals to the next full council to establish a working group. If they don't – we will," he added.

"I appeal to all parties in this town, to all politicians and to the public at large – together we can make Harlow town centre great again.

"But we need to work together to achieve this."

Residents and businesses can pledge their support for the campaign by following @SaveHTC on Twitter or by searching Save Harlow Town Centre on Facebook.

Next week, Save Harlow Town Centre wants to hear from you and the Star will publish a survey online and in the paper for residents to express their views.

Accused faces retrial over attempted murder charge

A MAN accused of attempting to murder his flatmate by stabbing him in the neck with a kitchen knife while he slept is facing a retrial.

After seven hours of deliberation, a jury at Chelmsford Crown Court failed to reach a verdict in the case of Michael McFarlane, 59, of Halling Hill, Harlow, who denies charges of attempted murder and wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm.

On Tuesday McFarlane, who pleaded guilty to unlawful wounding of Graham Botfield, 52, was remanded in custody until August 24 when it is expected a date will be fixed for the retrial.

Lucky seven for our green dream team

ONE of the jewels in Harlow's crown has been included in a list of the best-kept green spaces in the country for the seventh year running.

Parndon Wood Nature Reserve will once again be able to fly a prestigious Green Flag presented by the environmental charity Keep Britain Tidy.

The site has been recorded as a woodland for at least 900 years and first became a local nature reserve in 1974. It was later designated a Special Site for Scientific Interest because of its flora and value as an educational resource.

Set on the southern outskirts of the town, it is maintained by Harlow Council and volunteers and is open to the public all year round. Environmental charity ECCO manages the reserve's conservation centre and runs community activities as part of a partnership agreement. It is one of 1,582 sites across the UK which have been judged worthy of a flag this year.

Cllr Mark Wilkinson, Harlow Council's portfolio holder for environment, said: "This is another excellent achievement for Parndon Wood Nature Reserve and it's great to see all the hard work that council officers, volunteers and ECCO put in pay off.

"Hundreds of children and families take part in community events at the reserve and these play a vital role in improving people's health and wellbeing in Harlow. This award recognises and highlights that people in the town continue to benefit from a green open space of the very highest quality."

Flags are presented to parks and green spaces which are judged to have been managed to the highest possible standards and which offer visitors excellent facilities.

An army of more than 700 "green space experts" visit sites carry out assessments against eight strict criteria including horticultural standards, cleanliness, sustainability and community involvement.

A flag-raising ceremony will take place at Parndon Wood next month.

Concerns grow for safety of man missing for 8 days

Family's fear as superstore checkout worker, 27, vanishes

Sinead Holland

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE search for a man who has been missing for more than a week is being stepped up as fears grow for his safety.

The anxious family of 27-year-old James Sullivan say his disappearance is completely out of character and they have been contacting hospitals in their efforts to find him.

James, who works as a checkout cashier at the Sainsbury's store in Fifth Avenue, Harlow, was last seen at the home he shares with mum Anna in Riverfield Lane, Sawbridgeworth, on Tuesday of last week. She notified police when he did not return.

Dad Tom and stepmum Paula, who live in Kent, have been using social media to step up the campaign to find him.

James was last seen when he left home in his silver Honda Jazz car, registration number NC09 EZV, at 2.30pm. Police said it is known the vehicle was driven through the Blackwall Tunnel later the same day.

He is described as 5ft 10in (1.78m) and slim, with brown eyes and short, dark brown hair. He was wearing black skinny jeans, a black or white crew-neck T-shirt and maroon or black Converse-style trainers.

"We are naturally besides ourselves with worry," said Anna. "This is very unlike James as he is conscientious about his work and is a very sensible and level-headed young man."

"He has never gone missing or disappeared before and always lets people know where he is going.

"His phone is either switched off or run out of battery, but we keep phoning and leaving text messages anyway in the hope they will be answered."

Inspector Andy Palfreyman, of Hertfordshire Police, who is leading the investigation to find him said: "James' disappearance is unexplained and completely out of character. Understandably his family are very concerned about him and are desperate for news on his whereabouts."

"I would also appeal to anyone who has seen James or who knows of his whereabouts to contact us. I am particularly keen to hear from anyone who may have seen his car, especially around the Blackwall Tunnel area."

Tom has phoned hospitals in Essex, Herts and Cambridge in the hope that his son had been admitted to one of them for treatment.

Anyone who knows of James' whereabouts is asked to contact police on 101.

M11 plan is not a shared vision

SIR I have read many letters in the Star regarding views and concerns over the proposed M11 junction 7A and bypass. I feel that local people have not had a full appreciation of the county planners' view of this project.

Most Harlow citizens are expecting a solution to cope with current and perceived volumes of traffic in line with the original concept of a northern bypass to accomplish this.

I attended a presentation by the Essex county planners office at the KEO building last year. The county planning office has not the same vision as most local citizens. They do not see capacity and minimum ramifications on the current Harlow infrastructure as an issue.

The vision that has been taken is to use this development to ensure "traffic calming needs", and reduce the opportunity for traffic crossing from both the main road arteries – the M11 and A10 – and visa versa.

The filtering of traffic through Harlow residential and industrial areas will affect this.

I shared my disagreement with the planners during and after this presentation and also challenged their view of this being the only solution based on costs alone and the already spent investment of millions.

I have been campaigning for local employment for Harlow citizens for over seven years and have an even stronger view this approach must be taken.

This would have reduced major aspects of this work in infrastructure cost, volume saturation and social impact and would provide a town where walking, cycling or using effective public transport to get to work or travel provide a healthier society.

Happy with our village status

SIR In response to the letter from Paul Wadley (Star, July 23), I am a resident of Church Langley and I most definitely do not want a new M11 junction to spoil the tranquility of our lovely village atmosphere.

We are quite happy with our bespoke surroundings and are very happy to be distanced from Harlow itself.

I recall, a year or so ago, the furore that was caused by another letter on the subject of Church Langley's village status but would respectfully highlight the village feeling all our residents seem to have.

We are not elitist, just rightly proud of our immediate surroundings.

So less of the green-eyed monster, Mr Wadley. You are always more than welcome to join our happy throng.

Thank you for all the care we received

SIR I was recently admitted to Tye Green Ward at Princess Alexandra Hospital to have a total replacement of my left hip joint.

The operation was completed successfully and during that time I was cared for by many wonderful people. It began with the surgeon and his team meeting me to discuss what would happen. They were marvellous and I felt reassured all would go well.

All the doctors, nurses, the physiotherapy team and occupational therapists as well as the ladies who made the tea and those who prepared my food did all they could to watch over me with care and efficiency. I am very grateful to them all.

SIR I feel I must write to let your readers know of the excellent care we received when my granddaughter was a patient on the day care ward at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

SIR I would like to thank the kind people who helped me after my fall in Kiln Lane, Harlow, and who also took me home. Also thanks to the doctors and nurses at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

Whilst I appreciate that many new-style larger vehicles will not fit in bog standard garages, if Harlow residents used their garages to store their cars or gave them back to the council if indeed their vehicles will not fit, there would be fewer cars on the road and more space for people to park their Land Rovers.

My licence plates were stolen again last weekend while it was parked in an area where there is at least one garage sitting empty because the tenant now only has one car and two garages. Two others are used to store a boat and general tat.

I don't necessarily see why general garage sizes need to be increased because of a growing trend in large, unnecessary vehicles.

This is Harlow after all, not the Lake District!

J.M. Gillespie

Yes, they ARE civil servants

SIR Just to put the record straight for Glynis Grove (Letters, July 23), I think being ex-Army and having served my country I am qualified to state what council officers are and I am correct in what I stated.

The official term civil servant refers to either a branch of governmental services in which individuals are employed (hired) on the basis of professional merit as proven by competitive examinations or the body of employees in any government agency apart from the military, which is a separate extension of any national government.

An officer is a member of an armed force. Used without further detail, the term officer almost always refers to commissioned officers, the most senior portion of a force who derive authority from a commission from the state or who hold the warrant of Queen's commission i.e. Her Majesty's armed forces.

There is nothing derogatory about being a civil servant, it should be something to be proud of serving the community.

I hope this clears up this trivial matter.

Tackling rise in dementia

SIR There are nearly 25,000 people in Essex living with dementia but we know that many of them aren't receiving the help they need.

In fact, a UK-wide study found three-quarters of GPs feel their patients with dementia aren't getting enough support from adult social services. The result is that unpaid family carers across Essex are filling in the gaps.

The Alzheimer's Society is calling for two things to happen.

Firstly, we need Star readers to speak to their GP if they are worried about their memory. It might be nothing but if it is dementia then getting a diagnosis opens the door to support.

Secondly, we need to see more funding going to services for people with a diagnosis. The support in Essex is delivered by hardworking professionals and it makes a tangible difference to people's lives, but we need to go further.

The number of people with dementia is continuing to rise. It is time for the Government to seize the momentum for change and realise its ambition to make the UK a global leader on dementia care.

Guests have a ball at fundraiser for children's hospital

THE family and friends of a young boy from Old Harlow said they are delighted with the success of a charity ball held to raise money for the London hospital where he is being treated.

Five-year-old Harry Patch suffers from several conditions including bilateral talipes, spina bifida occulta and severe eczema.

The fundraiser, which was held at Blake Hall near Ongar, was organised by RS Cars London and Phoebe's Hair Salon in Sawbridgeworth, raised almost £14,000 for Great Ormond Street Hospital.

The evening started with a heartfelt speech from Harry's mum Coleen, during which she spoke about his health and praised the hospital for the care he is receiving.

Guests were then treated to a buffet provided by Jason Howland, a raffle and a disco.

"The turnout was fantastic and everyone looked amazing in their ballgowns and tuxedos," said Coleen's sister: Keenan McNally.

"We had so many amazing prizes for our raffle; everybody was very generous with their donations."

Town's 'oldest teaboy' dies at the age of 102

Great-grandfather Jim only gave up working five months ago

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

THE funeral of a man who was affectionately described as "Harlow's oldest tea boy" will take place on Monday.

Jim Clements, who until five months ago was still working, died peacefully in his sleep at his home in Old Harlow on July 16. He was 102.

The great-grandfather was born in what is now the Straw Hat Oriental restaurant in Harlow Road in 1913.

One of eight children, he went to school in High Wych and during the war years worked at the Ernest Lake Ltd factory in Bishop's Stortford making torpedoes after being turned down by the Army three times.

It was there he first met his wife, Gladys. The couple married in 1944 and were together until her death 21 years ago. They had two children.

For a time the couple lived in Wales to be closer to Mrs Clements' family before moving to Harlow.

Mr Clements initially retired in the early 1980s but missed work so much that, at the age of 66, he took a job with Harlow-based Active Security, which back then was called HSS Alarms.

He helped out in the company's offices at Pinacles and was still working there two mornings a week - filing, answering the phone, photocopying and making cups of tea - until earlier this year when he called it a day.

In 2013 he became something of a local celebrity when the Star's story about his 100th birthday party

DEARLY MISSED:
Jim Clements

organised by work colleagues was picked by the national media.

At the time one of his workmates said: "Jim is amazing; he still works two days a week helping out in the office. Everyone who works with him is gobsmacked that he is 100 because he only looks in his 80s."

"He is a lovely man and a real character. He has a wicked sense of humour and is very highly thought of by everyone."

Earlier this year he decided to retire for the second time. "I've enjoyed every day I've been coming to work here," he said. "It's been great but it is now time for me to stop."

This week his former colleagues at Active Security paid tribute to him. "We all knew it was going to happen one day but it was still a shock," said Pauline Weirich.

"It has been strange without him, as even though he retired in February he always came in once a week for a cup of tea. He is dearly missed and we are still coming to terms with the fact he has passed away. It has left a hole."

Mr Clements leaves two children - son Barry and daughter Susan - four grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

His funeral will be held at Parndon Wood Crematorium in Harlow on Monday.

Get on your bike for a cycle ride around town

CYCLISTS in Harlow are being encouraged to sign up for a mass participation bike ride around the town later this month.

The event is being held to encourage people to take up cycling as part of a healthy lifestyle as well as promoting Harlow's 30-mile network of cycle tracks.

It is being organised by Harlow Council in partnership with the Hub+Spoke cycle centre at Bush Fair, Parndon Sports and Social Club, Essex Police, the Cyclists Touring Club, Halfords, Decathlon and Tesco.

Cyclists of all abilities and families can take part and there will be selection of prizes to be won.

Councillor Emma Toal, portfolio holder for youth & community, said: "Cycling is a fun, healthy and environmentally friendly way of getting around and Harlow, which has one of the largest networks of cycle tracks in the country, is a great place to cycle."

"It's recommended that the average adult should do 150 minutes of physical activity per week. Building cycling into a daily routine for short journeys helps to achieve this and using the bicycle instead of the car will also help to save money."

Ride Harlow takes place on Sunday, August 31. Places are limited and can be booked using the online form at www.harlow.gov.uk/ride-harlow.

Football match to raise money for hospital ITU

HARLOW: A CHARITY football match to raise money for the intensive care unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital will be held on Saturday.

Family and friends of Stephen Wadhams, who is now recovering after being cared for in the unit, have arranged the event to raise money.

Mr Wadhams' wife Kathy, a nurse at the hospital, said: "The care he received was excellent and we wanted to say thank you. We are so grateful for everything they did for him."

Entry to the match, which kicks off at 3pm at The Link in Parsloe Road is £5.

Val Waring, of Little Hallingbury, is a big fan of the show and regularly gets in touch with presenters.

Ms Waring often suggests two versions of the same song recorded by different artists to the radio's weekend breakfast show.

In honour of her contribution, breakfast show host Rob Furber prepared a mixtape of the songs Ms Waring had suggested and it was presented to her by HHR chairman Andy Meadows.

Airfield flag tribute to stunt crash pilot

North Weald team founder killed during display at festival

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

FLAGS at North Weald Airfield were flying at half mast this week following the death of a display team pilot who was killed when his plane crashed during a festival in Cheshire at the weekend.

RAF-trained Kevin Whyman, 35, was a founder member of the Gnats Display Team which is based at the village airfield.

Mr Whyman, who was married with a young daughter, was one of two Gnats pilots taking part in the Carfest event organised by Radio 2 DJ and new Top Gear host Chris Evans.

Thousands of spectators watched in horror as his distinctive red plane crashed during an air display at the three-day festival at Oulton Park.

Just before the crash, two planes had performed a low-level, close proximity pass. Mr Whyman's plane suddenly nosedived, before disappearing behind trees. Moments later a plume of thick black smoke billowed into the sky.

A visibly upset Mr Evans later told reporters: "There was a tragic accident, the result of which was that one of the pilots involved in a synchro display lost his life."

The following day Mr Evans led the crowd in a minute's silence.

This week tributes have been paid to Mr Whyman, who was known to his friends as Jester. Among those expressing their shock was Cllr Chris Whitbread, leader of Epping Forest District Council which owns the airfield at North Weald.

He said: "North Weald is a close-knit community of pilots and aeroplane enthusiasts," he said. "There is a very special spirit of friendship and camaraderie at the airfield. People will be hurting at this time and my heart and my condolences go out to Mr Whyman, his family and his friends."

The Gnats Display team is operated by the Heritage Aircraft Trust, a charity which was set up preserve and protect Gnat and other historic aircraft for the benefit of the public.

The trust maintains and flies three Folland Gnat planes, which are flown by the world-royal famous Red Arrows aerobatic team and which have been used to train more than 1,400 fast jet RAF pilots.

A trust spokesman said: "Kevin was a Royal Air Force trained fast jet pilot whose enthusiasm for flying the Folland Gnat was infectious. He will be greatly missed by his family, the team and many friends."

Mr Whyman, who lived in London, also coxed the Cambridge boat team to victory over Oxford in 1996 and 1997 and was a keen skier. After serving in the RAF he joined an US investment bank in the City of London and completed his civilian flying licences so he could continue to fly.

An investigation into the cause of the accident will be carried out by the Civil Aviation Authority and the Air Accidents Investigation Board.

CHAIN GANG: Science Alive chief executive Jon O'Connor with members of Mr Collins' family and Stan Newens

Story of town's cycle museum founder told in new exhibition

A NEW exhibition about the life of John Collins, the cycle trader who created one of the finest collections of bikes in the country and founded the former cycle museum at Mark Hall, has opened at Harlow Museum.

Several members of Mr Collins' family were invited to a private preview, which coincided with the publication of The John Collins Story edited by former Harlow MP Stan Newens.

Mr Collins came from a long family of wheelwrights going back to the 17th century. The exhibition tells the story of how the collection was developed over several generations to become one of the most significant histories of cycling and cycling ephemera in the world.

Mr Collins' daughter, Julia Smart, said her father would have been thrilled at the attention to detail and the care taken in staging the celebration of his work.

The exhibition is now open to the public. Admission is £2 for adults and £1 for children (under 5s free).

Foodbank's search for new premises goes on

Charity hopes to find alternative location before the end of year

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE charity behind Harlow Foodbank is stepping up its search for new premises after being told it must leave their current base in the town.

The foodbank which is run by the Michael Roberts Charitable Trust is currently based in the Lok'nStore self storage warehouse in Edinburgh Way.

But with plans to redevelop the ground floor of the premises in the next few months, the trust has been told it will need to look elsewhere to store its stock of food.

Despite appealing for an alternative location, it has yet to find a suitable venue.

MCRT director Gary Knott said: "Lock'nStore have been very supportive of us since 2009 when we moved in.

"We are using an open area but what they want to do now is to re-jig that area into new units and that would mean that we could not stay there.

"We are looking around now but I'm not sure how long the process will be."

The charity requires a space of between 2,000-2,500 sq.ft. to operate its services and house it supplies, with ground floor access and security required.

"We are looking at the back end of this year to find a venue, with a view to move

BANKING ON A NEW HOME: Left, Volunteers at work at the Harlow Foodbank which has been told it will have to leave its current base at the Lok'nStore centre in Edinburgh Way in at the beginning of 2016," said Mr Knott who added the charity's administration offices would remain where it is at Wych Elm.

"We have been looking for three months. One or two places have offered us temporary accommodation but we are looking for something more permanent."

As well as the foodbank, the charity oversees Maybury Open Door, which helps a wide range of adults including the elderly, disabled, homeless and isolated, and the Bounty Club, which works with local food companies to recycle food wastage for the benefit of the community.

Last year the foodbank supplied almost 4,000 people in need of help with emergency rations, distributing 102 tonnes of food around the town.

Mr Knott said: "Ideally, because we are a small local charity, we are hoping for someone to come forward and help by providing us with a venue or equally just someone to donate towards our work.

"It is essential we have a permanent location if our work in the town is to be maintained."

"My own view is that the foodbank is an important part of the community. Foodbanks are here to stay and we want to be providing the best possible service to Harlow."

Firefighters to walk out in protest over cuts they claim will 'decimate service'

FIREFIGHTERS in Essex will be taking strike action today (Thursday) in their ongoing dispute over job cuts.

Members of the Fire Brigades Union will walk out in protest at what they claim are plans which will "decimate" the county's fire and rescue services.

The union said the service had already suffered some extremely severe budget cuts and their latest proposed cuts would result in the loss of a further 187 jobs, reducing the number of firefighters 656 to 477.

Alan Chinn-Shaw, secretary of the FBU in Essex, said: "These attacks are nothing less than a dismantling of the fire and rescue service in Essex.

Decimating

"If ECFRS are allowed to continue decimating our frontline service the public will have to wait longer for their fire engines to arrive in an emergency. It is only a matter of time before there are casualties."

He added: "We are campaigning on behalf of the public to maintain a fire service that is adequately funded, professional and able to respond swiftly to emergency 999 calls. Our communities deserve nothing less.

"We recognise that our fire service is facing budget reductions, but we believe there are alternatives to these unnecessary cuts to lifesaving frontline services."

Leader's assurance over home repairs

TENANTS waiting for their windows and doors to be replaced have been given an assurance by the leader of Harlow Council.

Up to a dozen residents in Chippingfield, Old Harlow, are waiting for their single-glazed windows and doors to be replaced by the authority under its modern homes programme.

Speaking at a meeting of the full council on Thursday, opposition deputy leader Cllr Joel Charles, who represents Old Harlow, said: "Today they've received another letter from the council in terms of getting their windows and doors replaced, telling of more delays. I'm personally involved in getting some answers for the tenants."

Cllr Jon Clempner said: "[I'll] personally look into the situation at Chippingfield."

£4m cuts 'on the way'

HARLOW Council is facing a funding cut of more than £4m over the next three years, according to its leader.

"Harlow will not be immune," said Cllr Jon Clempner, who revealed the council is likely to face to £4.2m of cuts over a three-year period.

The Labour leader said the authority had already seen central Government funding slashed by 49 per cent.

Cllr Clempner said: "While we don't know the outcome of November's spending review, it is thought that local government budgets have not been ring-fenced."

He added: "The council has responded well to the challenges it's faced but there's always room for improvement."

Toilet 'not accessible'

A DISABLED toilet in Harlow Civic Centre is not accessible to people in wheelchairs, according to a senior Tory councillor.

Cllr Simon Carter, who represents Church Langley, slammed the authority for placing a bin in front of the disabled toilet and claimed the public facility was "always dirty".

He also complained that the council chamber was not accessible for visitors using wheelchairs.

Fern Hill travellers site 'like a warzone'

Councillors agree to pay £70k towards refurbishment

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

ESSEX County Council has come under fire for its "shambolic" management of the Fern Hill traveller site in Harlow.

The site, in Fern Hill Lane, has been likened to a "warzone" with burnt-out vehicles, rubbish and hundreds of tyres littering the plot.

At a meeting on Thursday, Labour-run Harlow Council agreed to spend £70,000 to bring derelict pitches at the county council-owned site's back into use, despite opposition from Conservative members.

Tory opposition leader, Cllr Andrew Johnson said: "I'm here to speak up for the residents of Harlow. I think the residents of Harlow have been short-changed."

"Essex County Council needs to do its job and manage the site. It shouldn't be up to us to lob a load of money into the pot."

Shambolic

Deputy council leader Emma Toal branded County Hall's management of the site "shambolic to say the least", adding: "To say that it looks like a warzone is probably a bit of an understatement. The way it has been neglected over a number of years is absolutely appalling."

Refurbishing 12 derelict pitches at Fern Hill will cost £628,000 with Harlow Council and Essex County Council pledging to pay £70,000 each. The remainder of the cost will be met from national funding.

Cllr Russell Perrin said: "The message to residents is clear. We'll charge you £100,000 but not put the street lights on and keep it in our coffers and we'll go and spend £70,000 on somebody else's asset."

"What are we going to be doing next? Are we going to be upgrading Epping Forest's car parks? Are we going to be going to Coventry to spend money on their tram systems or Asda might need a new roof soon and we can throw money at that."

Councillors were told it was necessary to do the work to meet the council's obligation to provide pitches and to ensure it is doing everything it can to secure a permanent illegal encampment injunction when it returns to the High Court in October.

Positive

Council leader Jon Clempner said: "This is a site that meets Harlow's objective needs for traveller provision. Quite frankly getting concerned about where the line is drawn is not going to make the positive difference we need to make in Harlow so that's why I am strongly supporting this and I urge others to do so."

But Cllr Johnson responded: "What I'm not in support of is spending £70,000 of council taxpayer money to improve an Essex County Council asset."

"Essex have got quite a plentiful budget, it's their site so let them spend their money bringing it back up to scratch."

Ukip councillor Bill Pryor added: "It is important that we act and let the residents see that we are trying to do the best for the people of Harlow and the people that are on that traveller site at the moment are part of this town. They pay council tax and they pay rent and where possible I think they try to integrate."

"Let's make no bones about it, if we don't do it and the courts see that we haven't show due diligence then Harlow people will never forgive us."

Council 'wrong' to hold street lighting cash says Tory chief

FAILING to secure a decision before taking money from taxpayers to switch on street lights in Harlow was a "failure of catastrophic proportions".

The criticism came in the week a new report revealed that reduced street lighting does not lead to an increase in crime or car crashes.

Speaking at a meeting of Harlow Council on Thursday, Conservative group leader Andrew Johnson slammed the authority for failing to secure a decision before collecting money from taxpayers.

Cllr Johnson said the move was a "failure of catastrophic proportions" and accused the authority of "wrongly holding" taxpayer's money.

"Can we have our money back?" he asked.

Dimming

Researchers analysed 14 years of data from 62 councils in England and Wales which had tried strategies such as permanently switching off lights or dimming them.

The AA said the results were "extremely surprising" and differed from its own analysis of inquest findings.

Council leader Jon Clempner questioned the usefulness of the report which he claimed used data collected between 2011 and 2013 and from only three councils.

He added that it did not address the fear of crime and general community wellbeing.

In February, Harlow Council agreed to raise council tax by 1.5 per cent to generate the £100,000 needed to switch the lights back on. However, the council has yet to secure an agreement with Essex County Council.

Cllr Clempner said he was confident that a decision would be made "before the clocks go back" in October.

"The discussions with Essex County Council are ongoing and the council is hopeful that the streetlights will be turned back on in the near future," he said.

"The council will continue to work towards a satisfactory resolution in this matter that reflects the wishes of the town's residents to have the lights switched back on."

Radio station starts online broadcasting

A NEW community radio station based in Harlow town centre is promising to offer listeners a wide variety of music.

Firebird Radio has risen from the ashes of the former Hawks FM and is initially being broadcast online with a view to securing an FM license in the future.

Firebird, which is being run as a not-for-profit venture, was officially launched at a fun day at the Phoenix Resource Centre, in East Gate, from where the station will broadcast.

Station manager Ian Jackson said the schedule will include a live lounge feature, a rock show on Saturdays and a night of local bands on a Thursday.

"People can also request the songs they want and we'll be offering a service for people to promote their events free of charge," he added.

"The launch event brought some life into the town centre and a lot of people passed through."

"We have all come from Hawks and there is a hunger to get going again as we've missed it. We're all raring to go. We will offer all kinds of music."

For more information about the station or to find out about opportunities to become a presenter, visit the website at www.firebirdradio.uk.

HAVING FUN: James Reyland, Ben Johnson and members of their staff join St Clare mascot Clare Bear and some of the hospice's fundraising team to promote the fun day

Agency pair plan fun day fundraiser for hospice

CLASSIC American cars, live music, sideshows, bouncy castles and a penalty shootout competition will be among the many attractions at a family fun day in aid of St Clare Hospice.

The fundraising event is being organised by Harlow estate agents James Reyland and Ben Johnson as part of the hospice's annual £50 Challenge initiative.

Ben said: "James and I have been estate agents in Harlow for 15 years now, having worked for various agencies in the town, and we were always frustrated with the lack of enthusiasm to support local charities and community associations."

"So when we opened at the beginning of 2014 we decided to show just how much we really do care for our town by giving back to our community. In that time we have helped and donated to five primary schools, two football clubs and our biggest donation last year was to St Clare Hospice."

Other attractions at the fun day on Saturday, August 15 will include an inflatable football pitch, swing boats, face painting, a teddy bear auction, dance demonstrations, a raffle and competitions including a Man versus Food-style contest.

The majority of stallholders have pledged to donate a percent age of their day's takings to St Clare.

"There are not many communities that benefit from the incredible specialist care that is provided to local people by St Clare Hospice," said Ben.

"We hope everyone else feels the same and will come along to show their support."

"All the money raised on the day will be donated to St Clare so they can continue to be there for local families facing one of life's most difficult journeys."

The fun day will be held at The Link, in Parsloe Road, Harlow, from 1-6pm. Entry is £1 for adults and free for children.

Stroke survivor tells story

Young mum was only 24 when she lost the sight in one of her eyes

SURVIVOR: Anna Higgs

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

A MOTHER left blind in one eye after suffering a devastating stroke at the age of 24 is backing a new awareness campaign.

Anna Higgs, 35, who lives in Harlow, is supporting the Stroke Association's East of England Hidden Project. She had a stroke one month after giving birth to her son, Henry.

Anna was celebrating Christmas with family and friends when she became ill.

"Christmas day we were all round partying at my dad's house and all of a sudden I just came over all funny," she said. "They thought I was drunk so they took me home and put me to bed."

"It wasn't until the next day until my sister came round they realised something was seriously wrong."

The stroke affected Anna's speech and her mobility and robbed her of the chance to share some of the most precious days with her newborn son.

She soon began to work on her rehabilitation while bringing up her son. She had to teach herself how to do all of her daily tasks one handed, including changing Henry's nappy and getting herself dressed.

With the support from her parents and her partner Craig, Anna was determined not to give up.

She said: "I was determined to not let my stroke stop me. I believe there is life after stroke but there needs to be more awareness around the dreadful condition."

"I now have a very active 10-year-old son who is extremely supportive, two amazing parents and my partner who have all helped me every step of the way. My passion and hobby is burlesque dance; it has helped me regain confidence and keeps me active!"

Anna is a volunteer for the Stroke Association and shares her experiences with other stroke survivors.

The 35-year-old is one of the survivors who will be the subject of a powerful new photography exhibition called the Hidden Project, which will be displayed High House Production Park this month.

The group has posed for photographs to highlight the devastating effects of stroke using the colour purple to depict how each individual has been affected differently.

Anna added: "I hope that from this project more people realise that stroke can happen in instant, but the effects can last a lifetime."

■ The images of Anna will be showcased at the Thurrock Stroke Art Exhibition on Tuesday, August 18 from 2- 6pm.

Investment the key to building a better future for our town and its residents

THERE are many reasons for feeling optimistic about Harlow's future and the work to improve the lives of local people.

The first council houses to be built for over 25 years in the town are nearing completion. These will be new homes for Harlow people, allocated to local families who have a connection to Harlow and who are in housing need.

Construction work is moving ahead in preparation for building a new business park at the Harlow Enterprise Zone site in London Road. Talks are also advancing with developers to build a new science park and two major companies based in Harlow are looking to expand their businesses at the Enterprise Zone. All this will create new jobs and opportunities for local people.

Harlow's road network is now getting the attention it deserves with major investment from Essex County Council to upgrade stretches of the A414 through the town. This will help reduce traffic congestion for everyone and supports the development of the Enterprise Zone sites in London Road and Templefields.

Work continues on restoring and renewing the much-loved Town Park and its facilities. Once completed, there will be a revamped Pets' Corner; a café, new views across the park, new paths and new environments for everyone to enjoy.

I regularly meet colleagues from different councils and organisations and Harlow is seen as a key place within the London-Stansted-Cambridge corridor, not just because of its location but also because of its potential to help the economy grow in the region. I am hopeful that this will ensure Harlow gets the investment it needs.

But with this optimism there is some caution. The council has to be realistic about the financial challenges it faces. It will have less money coming from the Government which means we need to continue working hard to protect the everyday services we provide.

Following recent Government announcements, the housing budget funded by rents will also come under pressure. Difficult choices will need to be made about the services the council provides to its tenants and the programme it has to continue modernising council homes.

My priority is to ensure we work together to meet the needs of local people and continue to promote Harlow as a great town in which to invest.

Mosaic adds a splash of wall colour

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A GROUP of Harlow schoolchildren worked with two artists to produce an eye-catching mosaic which now graces a wall at one of the town's shopping hatches.

The artwork by Year 5 pupils from William Martin Primary School, in Tawneys Road, depicts Bush Fair as it looked in the 1850s. They coloured and painted their designs on card and paper and these were then transformed into glass tiles which were fitted together to form the mural.

The school was commissioned by Harlow Council to create the mural as part of a project to brighten up the town's wards. The children worked alongside local artists Sarah Bracey and Jim Brown to create the piece which was recently unveiled on a wall of the Co-op supermarket.

Miss Bracey, of Bishopsfield, Harlow, said: "They all completed a one-day workshop in design with Jim. It was quite an involved process."

She added that passers-by had complimented the work and had responded positively about art in the community.

"The children really liked it and enjoyed working on the mural," she said. "It was a really great thing for them to do."

Coffee for cancer unit

A WOMAN who survived breast cancer after receiving early treatment is holding a coffee morning to raise money for the clinical trials unit at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital and St Margaret's Hospital in Epping.

Mother-of-two Kim Robinson, 58, from Sawbridgeworth, was diagnosed after a mammogram. She had surgery and was treated with radiotherapy.

She and friend Anne Willsmore will be holding the coffee morning at Church House, in Vantorts Road, Sawbridgeworth, on Saturday, August 15 from 10am-1pm, helped by breast cancer survivor Jo Cozens.

Benefits cheat fails in sentence appeal

Judges uphold court's decision to jail mum-of-two

Court Reporter

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

A JAILED benefits cheat who was paid almost £50,000 of taxpayers' money despite owning a house and receiving cash from a divorce settlement has failed in a bid to have her jail sentence quashed.

Single mother-of-two Nadine Pirincci was sent to prison for 16 months in May after pleading guilty to 12 offences of benefit fraud.

Chelmsford Crown Court was told that Pirincci, 41, of York Road, North Weald, was overpaid the sum of £48,176 in housing benefit, income support, Jobseeker's Allowance and council tax benefit between July 2009 and May 2013.

Pirincci told Epping Forest District Council and the Department for Work and Pensions when she began claiming benefits that she owned a house but said it was being sold which meant it was temporarily disregarded when calculating her entitlement.

When her claim was later reviewed she said she no longer owned the property, in which she owned £86,000 of the equity, but it turned out she had taken the house off the market and let it out.

Settlement

Investigators also discovered she had received a divorce settlement of £67,000 which she had put into her children's bank accounts.

In total she failed to declare £76,000 she had in various accounts. She repaid all the money once the frauds were discovered.

The judge who jailed her said it was "never easy" to impose a sentence which meant taking a mother away from her children but added the insidious nature of benefit fraud involved taking money from hardworking taxpayers.

On Monday Pirincci's lawyer, Derek Perry, told the Court of Appeal she was of previous good character and argued the jail sentence that had been imposed was too severe.

However, the appeal was dismissed by the three judges who ruled that while the sentence was harsh in its result, it was not manifestly unjust.

Mr Justice Goss said Pirincci had made a series of claims that were fraudulent from the outset and which depended on a number of different declarations relating to assets that she had held over a long period of time.

Your chance to honour Harlow's unsung heroes

THE organisers of an awards ceremony celebrating the contribution of Harlow's unsung heroes to the community are asking Star readers for nominations.

The awards are run by the faith group Heart 4 Harlow which was set up to bring together the church and the wider community to work in partnership for the good of the town.

They are held annually to recognise and thank individuals and organisations for their efforts.

A total of 24 Heart 4 Harlow crystal trophies will be presented to the winners at an awards dinner to be held at the Manor of Groves Hotel on Thursday, October 8.

Eight of the awards are earmarked for businesses and the remaining 16 will be presented to individual winners in four different categories – education and sport, charities, good neighbours and civic and community projects.

Awards organiser and Heart 4 Harlow town chaplain Rev Robert Findlay said: "We want Star readers to suggest someone who deserves a mention of appreciation for the contribution they have given to the town."

Greens form new branch

THE Harlow Green Party held its founding meeting on Thursday following a positive campaign during the General Election.

Members of the party agreed they could dedicate themselves to the needs of the town's green supporters more effectively by breaking from the Epping branch.

Chairman Murray Sackwill, who polled 954 votes when he stood as the party's candidate in the Harlow constituency, said: "Members feel they will be able to focus on Harlow-specific issues, target local council seats in future elections and become a more effective voice for those who oppose austerity."

An AGM will be held in September.

CHEERS: Four students at the end-of-year show

Chance to Reflect on students' talents

TALENTED students from Harlow College showcased a variety of their work at an exhibition at the Gibberd Gallery in the Civic Centre.

It offered students studying media, art, photography, journalism, graphic design and film a chance to show off their work to friends, family, guests and the public.

Highlights of the exhibition, entitled Reflect 2015, included a children's book written in collaboration with The Down's Primary School and designs to modify Stansted Airport.

Level 3 media student Joseph

BETTER BY DESIGN: Some of the works on show

Campos, 19, who curated the showcase, said: "The main benefits of an exhibition like this are that it gives students an opportunity to showcase their work, which they don't always get the chance to do.

"For myself as a curator, it's given me an insight into the real world in terms of prepping and organising a big event."

College principal Karen Spencer said: "We want to thank the Gibberd Gallery for providing our students with the opportunity to showcase their creative work."

"As a college we really believe in giving students opportunities that stretch and challenge them. Exhibiting in a professional gallery is a fantastic experience and I was blown away with the quality of their work."

Role model

"Angie is a great role model to staff and pupils," said Ms Barron.

Joyce Hodgetts, managing director of the Academy Transformation Trust, said: "It was a great pleasure to recognise our pupils, staff and governors' outstanding contributions to their academies and to celebrate with them as a reward for their efforts and hard work."

"Staff who are dedicated and focused are one the keys to a successful academy so it is important that we honour the contributions of hard-working staff like Kathy and Angie and thank them for their commitment to helping move their schools forward over the past year."

Henri looking forward with new solo show

JAZZ pianist turned rock star Henri Herbert is returning to Harlow, having previously played The Square with Jim Jones Revue.

With the rock and roll band now disbanded, Henri is now fully focused on his solo career and is looking forward to returning to the scene of one of their greatest concerts.

The 30-year-old from France, via Clacton, will take his three-piece band to the Fourth Avenue venue on Friday, August 29.

"I remember it was rammed when we played," he said of their two sold-out gigs.

"We had to go through the audience to go onto stage and then back through the crowd when we were done, which was quite an experience as we don't often get to do that.

"It was a great audience and I think it was one of my top five JJR shows."

Jim Jones Revue were quite the full-on experience with Henri's eccentric piano-playing matching the hard guitars and charismatic stage presence of front man Jim.

Henri joined as the band were writing their third, and final, album The Savage Heart which they toured all over the world. A particular highlight of his time was performing on the Late Show with David Letterman in 2011.

But when the band came to an end in 2014, Henri was not at a loss of what he wanted to do next.

"We all wanted to do something different and the band came to a natural end," he said of JJR's demise.

"It has been a journey, but I'm really enjoying it and I'm having as much fun now as I ever was when I was with Jim Jones Revue.

"It can be hard writing your own thing to not be too inspired by what you've done before and make exactly the same thing. I've had to find my own voice."

Part of the inspiration for a solo show formed when Henri became an unexpected internet sensation when a video of him giving an impromptu performance on a free piano at London St Pancras went viral.

The video, shot in 2013, has been seen more than nine million times and helped give the pianist the idea of how a solo show might work.

However, going it alone was a huge challenge, as Henri had never fronted a band or sung before.

"Some of it's going to be similar, as we did a lot of rock and roll, but the main difference is that I will be singing and playing my own songs," he said.

"It's almost the same type of show, but a lot quieter.

"I started writing about a year ago as I was going to Canada to do a solo show and realised I didn't have any songs. There will be a few more ballads in the set and we do not have any guitars, it's just me a bass player and a drummer.

"I've sung backing vocals in previous bands and also in JJR, but I thought originally of bringing in a singer before I kind of realised I should be singing my own songs really.

"It has been a learning process, but I enjoy a challenge. I still do solo shows as well and I will be taking that around Spain in the autumn."

The Harlow show will be something of a warm up for Henri, who has lined up a UK tour with his band as well as the solo tour of Spain.

He said it will all be in support of a currently untitled EP which will be recorded at the end of August and released in October.

"I've been playing the piano for as long as I can remember," he adds.

"I used to have to stand on a stool to reach the keys when I was little - it's all I have ever wanted to do."

■ Henri Herbert will be playing at The Square, Fourth Avenue, Harlow on Friday, August 28. Tickets are £10 in advance and can be bought from: www.thesquareharlow.com.

The tribute boys are back in town

Despite international tours, they've shoehorned a co-headline tour with tribute giants Livewire into 2015, along with their own stand-alone tour in what will be an exhausting year-long schedule. The boys are back!

Back to Big Country

SCOTTISH alt-rockers Big Country have not set foot in Harlow before, but are looking forward to putting on a show for crowds at the soon-to-close Square.

Hailing from Dunfermline, Big Country have been one of the UK's most successful and influential bands of the 1980s, scoring a No1 album and a string of hit singles.

But after a decade apart following the 2001 death of lead singer Stuart Adamson, the boys are back and touring more relentlessly than ever.

Drummer and long-time member Mark Brzezicki is relishing the challenge of life on the road and playing venues not discovered during their 30-year career.

"We're playing all over the place, but it's not that often we venture down south," he said.

"Big Country have always had a half English and half Scottish line-up so it's right that we come down and visit fans. We're now a full-on working and touring band, playing venues most weekends and it's quite different to how it was, but I am enjoying it."

With classic albums such as The Crossing, The Sheer and No1 Steeltown, the four-piece have many hits at their disposal.

But while fans can rely on In a Big Country, Look Away, Chance and Wonderland being played, the setlist has been freshened up with new album, The Journey.

Released to rave reviews in 2013, the long-awaited album is appropriately titled, given the 14 years that passed since the 1999 offering Driving to Damascus.

"I think the album was received incredibly well and I think that it has come on a lot rhythmically – but it sounds very Big Country, the sound is in our system now we've been playing together for so long."

"It's good to keep the fans happy by releasing a new record and we've got a lot of songs to pick from now."

Fourteen years is an historical era in pop music and a lot has changed in that time for Big Country, most notably the passing of lead singer and band founder Stuart Adamson.

"We needed to go through quite an emotionally healing process," says Mark of the period after Adamson committed suicide in 2001.

"Everyone in the band has a different story to tell and I was lucky enough to carry on drumming in other bands through the period."

"We reformed for a while as a three-piece and we enjoyed it, but felt it was missing a few aspects – the vocal quality and the twin guitar affect that we had been known for."

Following a string of arrivals and departures, Big Country defied the odds to continue despite Mark's busy schedule, who was in huge demand as a session drummer.

Mark says the band's reformation shows the power of Big Country and the demand from fans longing to hear the hits once more.

"We are probably working as hard as any other band," he said.

"We don't want to rest on our laurels, we want to get out there and play."

Backed by original member Bruce Watson and long-time bassist Tony Butler, the band reformed in 2012 with new guitarists Jamie Watson and Simon Hough, who took over the vocals.

The current line-up was changed though when Tony left shortly afterwards to pursue a career in teaching and while the bass duty was briefly taken up by Derek Forbes, the band are presently a permanent member down.

But that hasn't deterred Mark, who said he is currently working harder than ever as a drummer and has settled into life on the circus that is a touring band.

While Adamson has left big shoes to fill, Mark is more than happy with new singer Simon, who feels does the hits justice.

"Simon sings the songs remarkably well and all the fans love him; we love him," said Mark.

"I am really happy with how it's going."

■ Big Country are playing at The Square in Harlow on Thursday, August 20. Tickets cost £15. Tickets, and more information about the gig can be found at www.thesquareharlow.com/listings.

FILMGUIDE

The Diary Of A Teenage Girl

COMEDY DRAMA (18) 102 minutes

Director: Marielle Heller

Starring: Bel Powley, Alexander Skarsgard, Kristen Wiig, Christopher Meloni, Madeleine Waters, Abby Wait, Margarita Levieva, Quinn Nagle, Austin Lyon

Teenage days

None emerges from the sprawling emotional minefield of adolescence without a few bruises and scars. In that time of hormone-fuelled experimentation and startling self-realisation, when sexuality is wonderfully fluid, it's important to stumble and fall – sometimes spectacularly – before nervously crossing the rubicon into adulthood.

Adapted from Phoebe Gloeckner's 2002 graphic novel, The Diary Of A Teenage Girl it elegantly documents a 15-year-old's sprint through this minefield without casting judgement on the morally-flawed characters or condemning them for their provocative actions.

First-time writer-director Marielle Heller takes her aesthetic lead from the era (bell-bottomed 1976 San Francisco) and the visually-arresting source material.

She bleaches her colour palette to resemble a washed-out instamatic camera print and visualises the heroine's day dreams as animated sequences – courtesy of artist Sara Gunnarsdottir – that occasionally blossom within the live action.

These risky stylistic ambitions could have been Heller's downfall, but there's charm and purpose in the amalgamation of filmmaking styles.

The writer-director is aided by an excellent cast led by British rising star Bel Powley, who sports a flawless American accent and exposes herself – figuratively and literally – to the camera for close scrutiny.

It's a far cry from her comical turn as a plummy Princess Margaret in A Royal Night Out.

"I had sex today," gushes 15-year-old Minnie Goetze (Powley), recording the first chapter of an audio diary onto cassettes, which she hides in a shoebox under her bed.

As Minnie breathlessly details events leading up to the loss of her virginity, we realise with a shudder that her first sexual partner is her mother's 35-year-old boyfriend, Monroe (Alexander Skarsgard).

"I was afraid to pass up the chance because I may never have another," confesses Minnie without a hint of self-deception.

Monroe becomes enslaved to Minnie, who embraces her burgeoning sexuality in the company of a rich kid fellow student (Austin Lyon), a pretty lesbian (Margarita Levieva) and her best friend Kimmie (Madeleine Waters).

When Minnie's bohemian, drug-snorting mom (Kristen Wiig) discovers the illegal relationship, Heller navigates the fallout with considerable flair and sensitivity.

The Diary Of A Teenage Girl is anchored by Powell's luminous portrayal of a bud waiting to bloom in the warmth of the northern California sun.

There's a beautiful scene early in the film when she stands in front of a mirror and traces the contours of her naked body, while wondering, "What's the point of living if nobody loves you, nobody sees you, nobody touches you?"

Her heroine's sense of fateful curiosity infuses every artful frame, catalysing terrific scenes with Wiig and Skarsgard, who lends his divisive character an easygoing charm and fallibility.

Wry humour cuts through the potentially-sensationalist subject matter, allowing us to view the storm through Minnie's wide eyes before the tears well and fall.

The sweet side of Atherton

If the proof is in the pudding, there's plenty of evidence backing Jason Atherton's talents. Keeley Bolger whisks the busy chef aside for a chat

LIKE many chefs, the Michelin-starred Jason Atherton has war wounds from his time in the kitchen. Worst of which is the "big scar" on his leg, the scene of a skin graft "many moons" ago.

"I dropped a pan of reduced veal stock and it stuck to my feet. I was only young, it was 1999, and I got rushed to hospital," explains Atherton, who appeared as a judge in Sky Living series My Kitchen Rules, alongside model-turned-chef Lorraine Pascale last year.

After six months off work, he went back to the kitchen on crutches and has, since then, avoided staff changing hot pans of oil "like the plague". But as painful as the injury was and as much as it gave him "nightmares" afterwards, the 43-year-old also missed being in the throng of the restaurant.

Born in Sheffield, Atherton's foodie journey began after he moved to London when he was 16, and landed a job at a Michelin-starred restaurant as a pot washer.

He worked his way up, eventually becoming a pastry chef, then head chef at Gordon Ramsay's Maze, and has since set up the popular Pollen Street Social in London's swanky Mayfair, and a string of other restaurants all over the world.

His workload shows no sign of stopping either, with a newly launched eatery in New York and his latest book, Social Sweets, all coming out in the space of a few months earlier this spring.

Putting out a book about desserts was a "logical step" for the chef, being as "99.9 per cent of people have a sweet tooth and like to finish off a meal with a dessert", he notes.

Clearly Atherton is in that number.

"Even though they're really cheesy to look at, one of my favourite things as a child was a Mr Kipling Bakewell tart," he explains. "I used to love having those, so being able to make a grown-up version of it is cool."

Committed as he is to perfecting his pudding recipes and bettering the service he offers in his restaurants, he admits his ambitions are only feasible thanks to the support of his wife, Irha, who works in the restaurant's head office.

"Without my wife, I wouldn't be where I am today," says Atherton, who lives in London with Irha and their two daughters. "Her support and understanding of the journey we're on together and as a family is unbelievable."

"Everything in life is a compromise. Running a successful restaurant business is time consuming and on top of all that, pushing Pollen Street Social to be one of the best restaurants, not just in the UK but hopefully in the world, takes time and dedication."

"That and the travel, and being a father and writing cookbooks... You've got to be super dedicated, so her support is massive. I couldn't live without her."

Tempted by the sound of Atherton's sweet treats? Here is a dessert from his new book to try at home.

QUICK CHEESECAKE (Serves 4-6)

For the raspberry compote:

250g raspberries
50g caster sugar
A twist of cracked black pepper from a grinder
Juice of 1/2 lemon

For the cheesecake:

250g cream cheese
90g icing sugar, sifted
1/2 vanilla pod, split in half, seeds scraped out with a knife
250ml double cream

For the crumble topping:

85g digestive biscuits
15g unsalted butter, melted

First, prepare the raspberry compote. Tip the raspberries and sugar into a heavy-based saucepan and add the pepper.

Gently heat the mixture, stirring initially, until the sugar dissolves and the raspberries start to break down.

Remove from the heat and add the lemon juice. Transfer to a bowl and leave to cool completely. If not using soon, cover the bowl with cling film and keep in the fridge until ready to serve.

Put the cream cheese, icing sugar and vanilla seeds into a large mixing bowl. Beat the mixture together with a whisk until well combined.

Whip the double cream to firm peaks in another bowl, then fold into the cheese mixture. If not using immediately, cover the bowl with cling film and keep in the fridge.

For the crumble topping, put the digestive biscuits into a clean plastic bag and crush them with a rolling pin to fine crumbs.

Tip into a bowl and mix with the melted butter (you can make this a few hours ahead, but store the crumble in an airtight container).

To assemble the cheesecakes, spoon the cheese mixture into individual glasses or bowls. Spoon over the raspberry compote and then the crumble topping. Serve at once.

GARDENS > WILDLIFE

Make it count for butterflies

The numbers of butterflies are waning. Join the count and help save one of nature's most interesting insects, says Susan Griffin

IF THERE was an award for the prettiest insect, the butterfly would make a likely winner. But the sad news is, they're in decline.

Sir David Attenborough, in his capacity as national treasure and Butterfly Conservation President, is calling on the public to take part in the Big Butterfly Count 2015, which is taking place until August 9. Here's how you can get involved...

SUPPORT: Sir David Attenborough their gardens or window ledges with high levels of nectar, such as catmint, lavender, cranesbill, oregano and echinacea. "By doing this you can provide butterflies, moths and other pollinating insects with a lifeline of food and shelter," continues Sir David. Plants like these attract Red Admirals (velvety black, intersected by striking red bands.) Brimstone (yellow to whitish green.) Green-veined Whites and other widespread species, providing food for butterflies, moths, bees and other pollinating insects.

comfort of your own home if you don't want to. According to the experts at Butterfly Conservation, gardens act as important stepping stones between nature reserves and other natural habitats by providing abundant supplies of nectar. Tips include finding sunny, sheltered spots when planting a wide variety of nectar plants, providing flowers right through the butterfly season (spring flowers are vital for butterflies coming out of hibernation, and autumn flowers help butterflies build up reserves for winter), and not using insecticides and pesticides.

CHART RANKINGS

Around 45,000 people took part in last year's Big Butterfly Count, spotting almost 560,000 butterflies. The Peacock (red wings with black markings and distinctive eyespots) was the most abundant Count butterfly, but the Small Tortoiseshell (bright orange and black) proved it was continuing its fight back after years of decline. This butterfly, whose population has plummeted by 78% since the seventies, saw numbers rise by almost a quarter, compared to the summer of 2013, making it the fourth most commonly seen Big Butterfly Count species – its highest ever ranking.

GET READY TO COUNT

First, you're going to need to arm yourself with an identification chart, which you can download from the website [www.bigbutterflycount.org], or via the app in order to identify and record the butterflies you see. Find a sunny spot and spend 15 minutes counting every butterfly that flies by. Nature lovers are also being asked to look out for Painted Lady butterflies (orange-brown wings with black and white spots on forewing) – they are currently experiencing their largest immigration to the UK since 2009 when millions arrived from the continent.

SAY WHAT YOU SEE

Once you're done, you'll need to submit your sightings online at www.bigbutterflycount.org.

The results of the survey will help the wildlife charity Butterfly Conservation find out how our common butterfly species are faring and how best to protect them in the future. Attenborough says: "It's up to every single one of us to make sure the spectacle of mid-summer butterflies remains a much-anticipated highlight of the season, rather than becoming a long-mourned memory."

OUT FOR THE COUNT

The Big Butterfly Count is the world's largest butterfly survey, encouraging people to spot and record 18 species of common butterfly and two day-flying moths during three weeks of high summer. "The UK's butterflies really need your help this summer," notes Sir David. "Three-quarters are in decline and one-third in danger of extinction. The ongoing and alarming loss of their habitat is a major and worrying factor in their falling numbers."

A CALL TO ARMS

To give butterflies a helping hand during the Count, and throughout the rest of the season, Sir David is calling on nature lovers to plant pots in

Gates Transit Centre Events Celebrate 50 years of the Ford Transit

Ford's Transit Van celebrates its 50th anniversary this weekend and Gates will be celebrating this milestone by holding an exclusive 50th birthday event at their specialist Transit Centres in Harlow and Stevenage from 7th-13th August 2015. The entire Ford Transit family will be available to view and test drive and Gates' Transit Centre specialists will be on hand to demonstrate some of the remarkable technologies now available on the Transit range. What's more, order any New Transit during the 50th birthday Event and receive 3 years free servicing.

The latest Transit line-up consists of four all-new models – Transit, Transit Custom, Transit Connect and Transit Courier – which are boosting demand for Ford commercial vehicles with sales at an all-time high in March, up 43% at 16,497 compared with March 2014. The All-New Transit is the largest vehicle in the range, offering loadspace from 9.6cu.m up to a vast 15.1 cu.m and Gross Vehicle Mass options from 2,900kg to 4,700kg. With a choice of four variants, as many as five body lengths and a choice of FWD, RWD or AWD, Transit is ideal for any business. The versatile All-New Transit Custom comes with 6.0cu.m or 6.8cu.m of loadspace and Gross Vehicle Mass options from 2,500kg to 3,300kg. It delivers outstanding fuel economy of up to 43.5mpg and has been awarded a maximum 5-star safety rating by Euro NCAP. The flexible Transit Connect offers "best in-class" fuel economy and CO₂ emissions from as little as 105g/km. With a choice of two body lengths, you get either 3.0cu.m or 3.7cu.m of loadspace in the vans and as much as 1,000kg payload capacity. Although the smallest van in the Transit range, the Courier still provides loadspace of 2.3cu.m, 10% more load volume than other vehicles in its class. It also boasts a generous 660kg payload capacity. The compact Transit Courier has a tight turning circle making it exceptionally manoeuvrable in busy, narrow streets or small parking spaces. Available with a choice of petrol or diesel engines including the highly fuel-efficient, award winning 1.0-litre EcoBoost.

Moe Ali, Group Transit Centre Manager, said "During its fifty years of service, the Ford Transit has served most of us in one way or another and for many, provides the tools needed to keep businesses running smoothly" Moe continues "The Ford Transit family has grown throughout this time but continues to lead the way in innovation as the new range looks forward to its next, successful half century".

The jumbo two-tonne Ford Transit was recently named "Van of the Year" by Auto Express, the third consecutive year that a Ford Transit has been awarded the title. Steve Fowler, Auto Express editor-in-chief, said: "Ford has constructed a huge model range to ensure there's a Transit for almost every business-buyers now have over 450 variants to choose from. The van was tested to destruction in the development process to ensure no amount of tough treatment at the hands of drivers would get the better of it. Even 50 years on from the launch of the original model, Ford's Transit is pushing the boundaries of the panel van market and challenging rivals to keep pace."

Since the first vehicle left the production line in Langley, England on 9th August 1965, almost 8 million Transit and Transit Custom models have been built and the Transit has grown from a single model to an entire family of Transit vans. Add demand for the smaller Transit Connect and the compact all-new Transit Courier, and total Transit production is scheduled to top 9 million during 2015. Parked end-to-end, 50 years of Transits would circle the globe. On average, a new Transit has been bought every 180 seconds during its lifetime.

To find out more about the Ford Transit range, call Gates Transit Centres in Harlow on 01279 213985 or Stevenage on 01438 530434 or visit www.gates.co.uk/transit-centres. There will be exclusive giveaways available for the first 50 appointments pre-booked during the 50th anniversary event. And don't forget, if you purchase a new Ford Transit between 7th-13th August, you'll receive 3 years free servicing*.

Mixed results for cricketers

HARLOW Town's second team went down by four wickets in their Shepherd Neame Essex League match at home to Gidea Park & Romford on Saturday.

Charlie Coleman (30) top scored in the hosts' tally of 144, which Gidea Park surpassed in 23 overs (145-6).

The thirds (194) drew with Billericay (189-8); James Hardcastle 4-64), while the fourths (173-3; Stuart Wiggins 75) beat Belhus (171; Jake Pike 4-28) by seven wickets.

Town's girls team (81-3) lost against Chelmsford (91-6). Brittany Teale and Matilda Prince both took two wickets.

TEN PIN BOWLING: The first six weeks of the Paramount Doubles League 2015/2016 season has already seen some fine bowling. The league's youngest members continue to lead the way, with Dale Hunter's six strikes in a row and a game of 234 one of the highlights. This has enabled Dale and his young team-mate Marc Wainwright to reach the top the league table. Dave Jones of the Triple X team rolled a 216 game on his way to his second 500 series of the season.

Promotion race heats up in the Nick of time

Baxter leads contenders Harlow to third straight win

Shenfield 220-8
Harlow won by 20 runs

A THIRD successive victory – inspired by a fantastic all-round display from Nick Baxter – has left Harlow within touching distance of the second promotion spot in Division One.

The fact that two of those three wins have come against fellow promotion rivals, has given Rehman Ahmed's men huge momentum going into the last five matches of the campaign.

Conor Ramsey opened the batting alongside Hafiz Yawar as Alan Jones had endured a busy week playing several matches for an Essex team.

The pair put on 58 before falling in quick succession.

After Rehman's departure the Marigolds men were 93-3.

A middle-order collapse then saw the hosts reeling at 108-7 after 30 overs.

Baxter and Luke Monger rebuilt the innings, the pair producing a solid partnership of 81.

Monger was dismissed for 33 with the score on 210 in the 45th over, but Baxter batted with the tail, punishing the bad balls.

Priceless

He took Harlow to a defendable score of 240 before being run out in the last over for a priceless innings of 79.

Pick of the Shenfield bowlers with 3-25 was Mark Hindley.

The Shenfield reply started well with openers Ollie Ekers and Jamie Walton putting on 44, seeing off Harlow's opening bowlers and the new ball.

Rehman turned to the slower options of Yawar and Ross Vasani, which turned the game in Harlow's favour.

Vasani bowling extremely well, taking 2-22 from his ten overs including the wicket of Shenfield captain Walton, bowling him around his legs for 32.

After the spinners' overs were finished, the captain reintroduced Baxter to the attack.

He promptly bowled Byron Wyngard for 45 as he tried to increase the run rate.

Baxter claimed two more wickets, leaving him with figures of 3-60 from his ten overs.

Youngster Tom Ballington's plucky 46 not out, lacked sufficient support as Shenfield fell 20 runs short on 220-8 after their allotted 50 overs.

Monger finished with 2-34.

Skipper Rehman paid tribute to Baxter: "Nicky knows how to play spin better than the others. He's also a left-handed batsman which helps him as well. He made a big contribution with Monger.

"He's a match winner. We've got a few of them in the team but he does it with bat and ball. When he clean bowled Byron, that was the game there."

Rehman said he learnt something from watching the Shenfield spinners destroy Harlow's middle-order, and he used exactly the same weapon to upset the visitors' batting momentum.

Promotion is possible, but Rehman remains head strong. "We were fighting relegation a couple of weeks ago and now we are fighting for promotion. We've got [fifth-placed] Woodford Wells away [on Saturday] and then Hornchurch at home, and they are looking to win the league."

Meanwhile, an under-strength second team suffered a second successive loss, ending their slim promotion hopes.

Harlow could only muster 154. Hosts Wickford cantered to 158-

2 and victory.

The Marigolds third team defeated Hutton to remain top.

Hutton amassed 213-8. Mudassar Naem took 4-59 and then scored an unbeaten 57 as Harlow reached 214-8.

The fourths (229-9 dec) are also top of their division. They beat Upminster fifths (122) by 107 runs.

Harlow match-winner Ilhan Mustafa scored 101 not out and then took 4-10.

SUCCESS: Harlow Judo Club members with their silverware

Terrific Thomas earns judo joy

THOMAS Lambert was the golden boy as he finished in top spot at the annual Don Werner Memorial Team event, held at High Wycombe.

The 13-year-old from Harlow Judo Club won all of his fights with Ippon (maximum score). He took on players graded higher than him throughout the event.

His club held its own well-organised event at the Burnt Mill Academy.

The U6 sixth Mon grades and below judo competition was led by Leigh Hemming with assistance from members and parents of the club, both officiating and behind the scenes.

There was a high level of competition with some very good clubs attending, pushing the standard of the Harlow outfit's own players towards a greater level.

Throughout the event, there was excellent judo on display and fantastic techniques used.

Harlow Judo Club clearly enjoyed home comforts as they brought in a haul of 11 medals.

On the day, two gold medals were won by Charlie Armstrong, eight, and Matthew Chapman, 11.

Four silver medals were earned by Fleur Salhi, nine, Ralfy Webb, eight, Kane Horsley, ten, and Owen Lambert, nine.

Five bronze medals were won by Seth Horsley, eight, Ethan Ryan, ten, Sam Cobbin-Brown, eight, Jake Salhi, ten, and Matthew Chapman, 11.

The squad coaching was led by head coach Mick Ellis with assistance from team coach, Adam Pope.

"I am very proud of this developing squad and we are already preparing them for the next competition," said Ellis.

Harlow Judo Club is based in Foldcroft. For training times, visit www.harlowjudoclub.com or contact Gill Ellis on gilliane11is48@yahoo.co.uk or 07976 955905 for more details.

Up against gymnasts from Essex and Hertfordshire, in the level five event, St Mark's pupil, Taylah Andrews Clark, 15, was awarded an outstanding five medals.

She won the overall level five silver, after receiving gold for bars and floor, silver for beam and bronze on vault.

She received a commendation and special award for her floor routine.

Just behind her twin sister, with a further five medals, Halle Andrews Clark finished with the overall level five bronze medal. She received silvers for vault and bars as well as bronze on beam and floor.

Poppy Bishop, 11, won a level four gold medal on vault, a bronze on floor, finishing fourth overall.

Henry Moore Primary pupil Molly Lomax-Edwards, 11, earned the bronze for vault and finished seventh overall. Chloe Ashall, 12, finished fifth overall.

Coach John Lockhart was delighted with the gymnasts' achievements.

TOP TALENT: Sidnie Ward

Super Sidnie takes control in 1500m

TWELVE-year-old Burnt Mill pupil Sidnie Ward represented Essex at Kingston-upon-Thames in the South of England Inter Counties event over 1500m.

From a field of 13 Sidnie took control of the race early on and never looked back to claim his seventh title this season.

He was four seconds clear in 4min 36sec.

The previous week at Watford Sidnie went back to top spot in the UK for U13 boys for 800m by running a time of 2:07.74 as he finished second in a mixed race.

This time placed Sidnie sixth on the UK all time list.

Also at Watford, Owen Armstrong, 16, another Burnt Mill pupil, took six seconds off his personal best over 800m by winning a mixed race in 2:04.37.

Nine-year-old Maxwell Chinn, from Harlow, won a recent parkrun at Chelmsford for U15s over 2km in 7:10.

This was the fifth fastest time recorded at the event.

Sidnie then closed his track season off with two big victories at Woodford in the Eastern Young Athletes League.

He won the U13 boys' 800m in 2:15, then won the 200m in 27.8.

Sidnie will now take time out in order to prepare for the winter months of an exciting cross country season where he hopes to figure in the major championships as an U13 boy over 3km.

Chiassaro's England gold

RICHARD CHIASSARO secured a fantastic gold medal at the English Athletic Championships at Bedford on Saturday.

The Harlow Athletic Club member is in fine form as he gears up for the IPC World Championships in Doha in October.

It has been a phenomenal year in which the wheelchair racer has moved into the world top six in his category.

Chiassaro, of Seymours, won the wheelchair 100m race in a time of 14.93sec at Bedford.

The 33-year-old, who has spina bifida, had earlier won his 100m heat in 14.53.

He said: "I was pleased with the time and going in to the last two competitions of season which are qualifiers for Doha I'm feeling confident."

"I pulled out of the 400m and 800m on Saturday as I have a stress fracture in my hand and wanted to take it easy, not to make it worse for this weekend as I'm also doing 1500m."

Chiassaro is tipped to win a haul of gold medals at the British Wheelchair Racing Association Championships at Stoke Mandeville this weekend.

He competes in the 100m, 200m, 400m, 800m and 1500m.

Watch Kai fly as hard training all pays off

Triathlete, 12, is one to watch this year

by Alasdair Gold

alasdair.gold@hertsexnews.co.uk

WHILE many 12-year-olds are concentrating more on their Playstations, ipads, ipods, Harlow's Kai Boggon has been getting outdoors and putting his body to the test.

The Passmores Academy pupil has been training hard all year getting ready for the 2015 Triathlon series. Kai has raced more than 15 triathlons this year so far, all over the country, from Cheshire to Kent.

It shows hard training does help because out of the 15 races the youngster managed to win 12 of them, racing some of the best kids in the country.

It was only at the beginning of the year that Kai started open water swim training with RG Active at Redricks Lakes in Sawbridgeworth, where he trains alongside mainly adults who themselves are in training for ironman and triathlons all over the world.

"These hard training sessions have brought on Kai's swimming massively," said his father Richard.

"It shows when racing as Kai has been in the top three after the swimming element in all events this year.

"When it comes to the bike training he has to thank Brett Savage and Paul Knight for taking time out to train him on a one-to-one basis.

"The bike was Kai's weakest discipline at the beginning of the series but now he is right up there finishing in the top three."

The last element is the running which is by far Kai's best discipline, thanks to the coaching he receives from Paul Bailey at Harlow Athletics Club where he trains twice a week.

Preparation

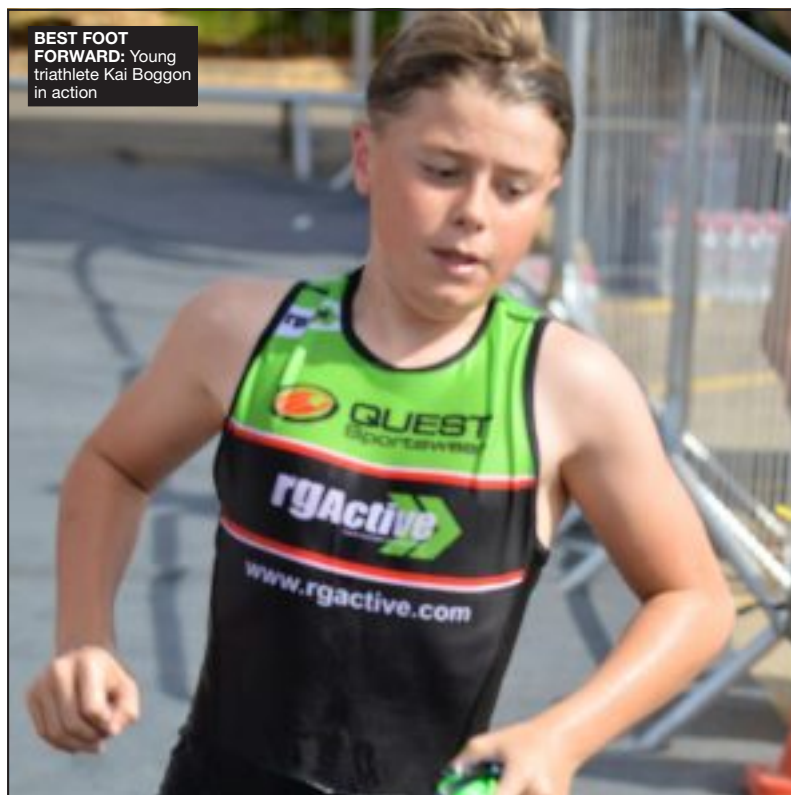

Kai is lifting his training in preparation for his biggest race of the year at Haver Castle next month where more than 2000 children split into groups of all ages to compete in the three disciplines.

"Kai hopes all the hard work he has put in pays off and does all his coaches proud," said his father.

"The triathlon sport is becoming very popular for children of all ages with clubs all around Harlow in Hoddesdon, Epping and Saffron Walden.

"Kai just hopes Harlow follows suit and starts up its own club.

"As soon as this series finishes its straight into the cross country league which he can't wait for."

Duo help county to U17 victory

TWO Harlow Athletic Club sprint group members represented Essex in their first ever Inter Counties U17 event.

Harry Woodall and Shemar Boldiszar competed at the event on the new athletic track in Marlow, Buckinghamshire.

Each county were allowed 43 athletes and eight counties competed - Buckinghamshire, Essex, Hampshire, Hertfordshire, Kent, Middlesex, Surrey and Sussex.

It is a point-based event that takes place annually and this year it was Essex who achieved the highest points in the men's group.

Essex won on 333 points with Kent second (306) and Middlesex third (295). The Essex girls came third overall.

Shemar, who had competed at the English Schools Championships in Gateshead, was carrying an injury but put that aside and ran a challenging 200m (22.60s).

He then took part in the 4x100m relay, achieving second place.

Harry also had an injury, which meant that he could only take part in the 100m as a non-scorer and had to pull out of the relay team.

Essex U17 team manager Vincent Lawrence said: "The two boys worked extremely well with their team-mates and encouraged others to perform well and achieve amazing personal bests."

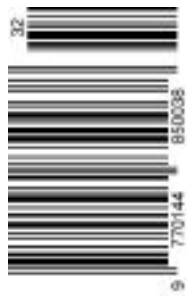

"It is becoming apparent that Harlow AC is developing and producing great future athletes across the track and field events."

He added: "The future is bright, with Richard Chiassaro representing England and two of Harlow AC young stars, Naomi Harryman being selected to represent England in heptathlon, and Will Marklew, who has been chosen to represent England South at the international competition this month."

"These athletes are great inspirations to all our young ones, their parents and the amazing Harlow Athletic Club coaches that put their time and effort into getting them ready for all their fierce competitions."

SONKO SIGNING OF THE SUMMER

Former Premier League star astonishing Hawks' coup

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IN what could rank as arguably the best signing a non-league club has made this summer – and perhaps even in much of the lower Football League – the Hawks have swooped for former Premier League defender Ibrahima Sonko.

Harlow Town are awaiting international clearance for former Senegal centre-half Sonko, and hope he can play in the Ryman North opener at home to Cheshunt on Saturday.

Sonko, 34, made headlines in 2006 when he declined a call-up to the Senegal Africa Cup of Nations squad to help Reading in their ultimately successful bid for promotion to the Premier League.

International clearance

He did actually play in the African tournament two years later.

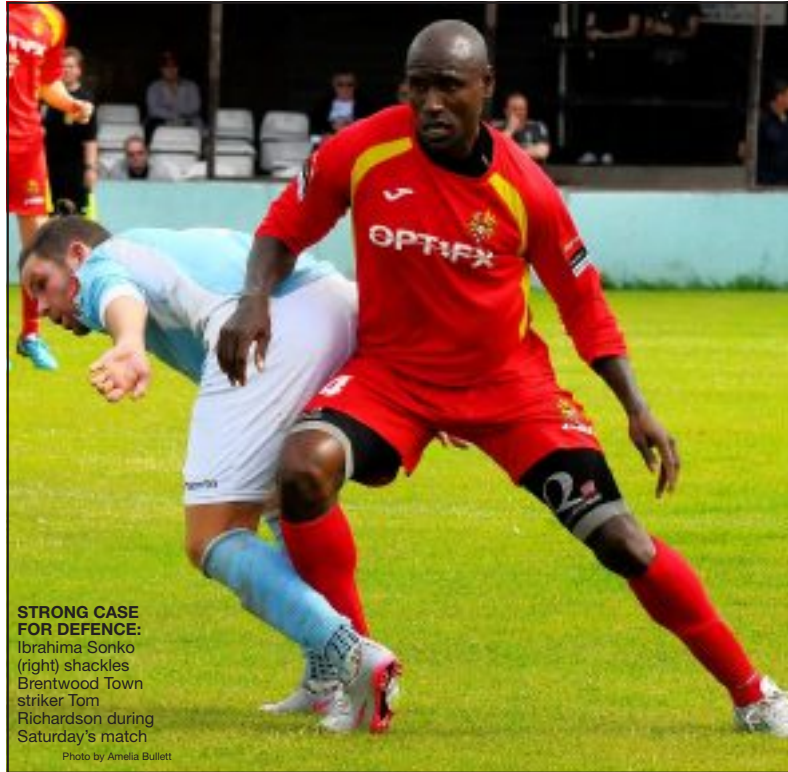

He made 127 appearances for the Royals between 2004 and 2008.

Sonko later played for Stoke City and Ipswich between loan spells at Hull and Portsmouth.

In 2012 he switched to Turkish club Akhisar Belediyespor, remaining there for three years and has just returned and has agreed to play for Harlow.

A delighted Chapman said: "We are waiting for international clearance. He has been a Premier League player most of his career."

"He got promoted from the Championship with Reading [in 2006]. We have to get clearance form the Turkish FA before he can play [in Ryman North]."

Chapman has told the Star off the record how the astonishing deal has come about.

The Harlow chief played Sonko alongside another new signing, former Heybridge centre-half Sam West, in the 1-1 draw at Ryman Premier Brentwood Town on Saturday in a new-look back line.

Chapman enthused: "It's a proper back four now. It's the strongest I've had. Sonko did very well. It's great to see him in a one-on-one situation."

"He is exactly what we need. He is fit as they come."

"He could still play in the Football League as far as I am concerned. I wouldn't be surprised if he plays somewhere a lot higher before his career is over."

"Hopefully we can keep him as long as we can."

The Hawks boss has totally transformed his squad in the last two weeks.

Along with the two centre-halves, he has brought in wingers Joe Benjamin (from Dulwich Hammet) and Harry Prince (from Bishop's Stortford; goalkeepers Niklas Freund and Ronnie Carroll; former Arsenal striker Omer Riza; plus ex-Ware right-back Gavin Cadette.

Earlier in the summer former Colchester United winger Ryan Melaugh was snapped up.

Central midfielder Cyrus Gordon, who was on trial at Ryman Premier side Grays, is also close to a deal.

The Harlow boss expects to bring in another attacking player before the Cheshunt opener.

The Hawks then face the long trip to Wroxham in Norfolk on Tuesday.

Chapman added: "Our aim is to win the league."

Town's battle to beat drop gets lifeline

Shepherd Neame Essex League, Division Two

Harlow Tn 287-7

Leigh-on-Sea 275-9

Harlow Town won by 12 runs

THE battle to beat the drop got a much-needed shot in the arm as Harlow Town all but ended Leigh-on-Sea's slim promotion hopes.

Winning the toss on Saturday, skipper Neil Gladwin was forced to bat first due to three of his players failing to get to the ground for the start time.

Ashley Alderson (29) and Joe Holland (20), promoted to three due the absence of Ramya Upadhyay, and on the back of 130 for the MCC against Saffron Walden in the week, chipped in.

Shiraz Ali skied a short ball and was caught and bowled for 42.

Pat Yates and Upadhyay, who managed to get to the ground, fell to successive balls, leaving Harlow Town on 161-5.

Gladwin hit 37 off only 22 balls before he was trapped in front.

Dan Farmer (pictured above) was run out after an excellent 42.

Town finished on 287-7. Leigh wickets fell regularly and at 92-5 the hosts were struggling.

Threatened

However, a 135-run partnership between Joel Barnett and Stuart Elliot threatened to take Leigh over the line.

Dan Baldwin then removed both batsmen to put Town back in control.

Leigh attempted to keep up with the run rate, but a final three-over spell from Farmer put paid to their chase as he bowled dot balls and a wicket to see the visitors to victory by 12 runs.

Gladwin said: "Daniel Farmer was outstanding today. He batted beautifully and deserved to reach his first 50, and with the ball he bowled with accuracy and threat and fully deserved his figures of 3-30."

"We desperately needed that victory and to come through a tight game will give the guys confidence."

"Unfortunately for us, the two sides below us in the league also won, so we are in the same position as we were before the game."

"We take on Horndon-on-the-Hill this week, who are only three points ahead of us and have been sucked back into the relegation dogfight, so Saturday is another big match."

CHAP-MAN'S BEST FREUND: Niklas Freund

Boss spurred on by new best Freund

DON'T be surprised if you see former Spurs cult hero Steffen Freund at The Harlow Arena next season – his son Niklas is playing in goal for the Hawks.

Niklas, 20, signed last weekend after impressing in the matches against VCD and on Saturday in the 1-1 draw against Brentwood.

Former Germany international midfielder Steffen was at Spurs from 1998-2003, winning the Worthington Cup at Wembley in 1999.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "At the moment has come in and has done really well."

"Steffen watched the game against VCD so we might see him around."

Niklas was attached to Vanarama National South club Chelmsford City, but spent part of last season on loan at Ryman Premier outfit Witham Town.

Chapman said: "He did really well [against Brentwood]. He has all the attributes to be a top keeper. I am expecting good things from Niklas. He's very mature for his age."

An excited Niklas tweeted: "Extremely happy to have signed for such a driven football club @ HarlowTownFC!"

Chapman has also brought in another keeper, Ronnie Carroll. This was after Andy Walker quit and Ed Thompson retired due to a knee injury.

Chapman is also pleased to snap up experienced striker Omer Riza, who managed Saturday's opponents Cheshunt last season.

"He can play one behind a frontman and up front. His attitude has been first class," Chapman said.

"Omer has the experience and as a manager he knows what is required. That can only benefit us."

At Brentwood, Alex Read equalised from the spot early in the second half, after Junior Dadson was brought down.

CULT HERO: Niklas' dad Steffen Freund in his hey-day
